Community H1N1 Clinic to be held in Syracuse

The Southeast District Health Department will be providing H1N1 immunizations at the OPPD meeting room on Monday, January 18, 2010 from 4 to 8 PM.

"The weather has not been our friend, said Kay Oestmann, Director of the Department. We had scheduled clinics to be held at SDA twice and had to postpone due to snow. Now activities prohibit our using the school".

The department has been offering the vaccine to all school districts in the five county area. Syracuse and Palmyra's students are encouraged to attend the Monday clinic.

Permission forms and information about the vaccine are available on both SDA and Palmyra's websites and Department's www.sedhd.org .

Community members who have been unable to obtain the vaccine are welcomed at this clinic since it is being held off campus. There will be no charge.

While H1N1 has currently slowed, the CDC believes it will return later this winter. In December the vaccine was made available to the entire population.
